Women Techmakers is a program created by Google to celebrate International Women's Day and to highlight the talent of women in technology. In 2017, we decided to organize the second edition in Montreal as part of the special event "The Women Techmakers Global Event Series Celebrating International Women's Day" (WTM IWD). This program has been in over 200 global events and seen across 52 countries. The main focus of this community-building initiative is to promote talented and passionate women, increase the visibility of the Montreal technology community and honour women in technology.

About the Event
Last year, there were over 200 attendees, 17 speakers and 7 sponsors at the one-day event. After such a huge success, we want to recreate this experience with a bigger second edition. This year, we are planning to have over 300 attendees at a two-day event.
